

My Australasian Veterinary Exam

www.brainybilby.com.au

CHECKLIST

- Check if your Veterinary Science Qualification is accredited by the Australasian Veterinary Board's Council (AVBC)
-

- If you need to sit the Australian veterinary examination, there are 3 main steps you need to know:
    - Eligibility Assessment (fee 455 aud)
    - Preliminary Examination (MCQ) (fee 3220 aud in 2024)
    - Clinical Examination (fee 8240 aud)
-

- Download the booklet in PDF from the AVBC and read it!!
-

- Study and get ready to sit the English exam. Nati recommends the OET instead of the academic IELTS. Anto chose PTE and she recommends it.
-

- While you study for the English exam, collect all the paperwork needed to apply for the Eligibility Assessment.
-

- The paperwork if it's not in English, needs to be translated by a "NAATI certified translator"
-

- Apply for the Eligibility Assessment on the the AVBC, submit all the documents required and pay the fee.
-

- Once eligible, they will send you the MCQ application form.

My Australasian Veterinary Exam

www.brainybilby.com.au

CHECKLIST

- The MCQ exam (multiple choice questions) is held once a year, usually in April.

---
- In 2022, the venues available to sit the MCQ were Auckland, Brisbane, Dubai, Melbourne, London, New Delhi, Perth, Sydney and Singapore.

---
- Study, study and study, allow yourself PLENTY of time. The time of preparation for this exam will vary from person to person. Natalia studied for 2 years, but Anto studied for 7 months.

---
- Once you pass the MCQ you can apply for a limited registration, depending on the state you are located in, this allows you to work as a Vet under supervision.

---
- Now, get ready for the FINAL STEP in your JOURNEY! Send an expression of interest to do the clinical exam, fill the form and pay the exam fee.

---
- The clinical exam normally held on once or twice a year during June and November/December, at the University of Queensland and the examination takes 5 days to complete.

---
- STUDY and get hands-on experience with dogs, cats, horses, cows and sheeps.

Best of luck
You can do this!